Make a real impact on people's lives

The IT systems that we build and maintain help drive the UK and keep the public safe.

Our approach to technology is progressive and driven by what gets the best results for our clients. Many of our most important and impactful projects integrate leading front-end interfaces with established back-end base technologies.

Trusted to deliver complex things well...

Giving parents the information they need

Our IT systems support the inspection and regulation services that care for children and young people. Our work has enabled the publication of over 2 million Ofsted reports over the last decade, allowing parents to make informed education choices.

Intelligent protection

We built and run the system that allows UK law enforcement agencies to share the intelligence they need to safeguard the public, and to detect and prevent crime.

Helping law enforcement to connect the dots

We built and maintain the Police National Database, which stores intelligence used by law enforcement agencies to help protect our society.

Thanks to us, responding to jury service is now quicker and simpler

We helped deliver a new digital service that allows citizens to reply to their jury summons using their mobile device, tablet or computer, reducing time, effort and postage costs.

“ We are helping to modernise the UK, supporting the government to update key IT-enabled services. We deliver projects that make a real difference; working to improve processes, increase efficiency and provide a people-centred service to be proud of.”
