

Accelerating agility for U.S. federal agencies

In today's rapidly evolving world, U.S. federal agencies recognize the need to become more agile, proactively sense change signals, and respond quickly with innovative approaches while executing their missions. Agile methodologies enable agencies to adopt a more iterative and flexible approach, allowing for faster decision-making, and shorter development cycles.

Federal agencies must comply with numerous regulations and policies, which can be challenging to navigate using traditional approaches. Agile methodologies facilitate iterative planning and continuous compliance, enabling agencies to quickly adapt to changes.

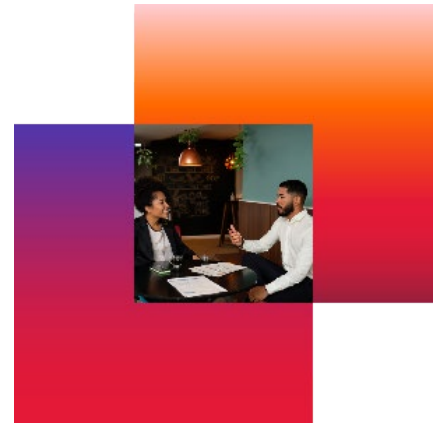

Why CGI?

CGI Federal brings expertise and the ability to tailor an approach to Agile that addresses the unique challenges and mission objectives of each agency. As the first Scaled Agile (SAFe®) Global Transformation Partner, CGI Federal offers the Agile Catalyst™ framework and the Agile Center of Excellence (COE) to help agencies customize agile ways of working to their meet specific mission objectives and unique challenges. We developed this proprietary framework based on successful delivery and lessons learned from working with over 20 federal civilian agencies and six defense agencies.

Our approach

CGI Federal's Agile experts partner with our clients to strengthen agility, establish optimal ways of working and accelerate efficiency and results. We bring years of experience with civilian and defense agencies to our engagements, helping clients adapt Agile techniques to their unique environments and needs.

CGI's approach focuses on enhancing agility, delivering value, establishing optimal working methods and driving efficiency and results leveraging our proprietary Agile Catalyst framework. This framework consists of a set of comprehensive services, templates and workflows that enable us to be more effective partners to our federal clients. It enables us to quickly develop customized Agile strategies for agencies, drawing on the most effective and appropriate implementation in each situation.

A framework built on decades of experience.

CGI has made Agile practices more effective and easier to adopt for U.S. Federal Agencies. Agile Catalyst™ and the CGI Agile Center of Excellence provide the following:

- A framework that is customized to government agency needs.
- 97% customer satisfaction.
- More visibility to the overall project status.
- Faster time to Authority to Operate (ATO).
- 99% improved quality of work.
- Faster time for product delivery and increase in deployments.
- Reduced operation costs through automation.
- Improved team alignment on priorities.
- 96% improved teamwork morale

Notably, an agency does not have to migrate its entire enterprise to Agile to benefit from implementing Agile in one or more specific departments, products or projects. Our expert consultants can lead the way to moving into Agile incrementally.

Agile Catalyst is designed for federal government clients and is a comprehensive digital accelerator framework that combines consulting services and a diverse set of tools, including preconfigured workflows, assessments, dashboards, templates, best practices, expert guidance, and more. Together, these components facilitate alignment, accelerate iterative value delivery, and ensure consistency in adopting Agile methodologies. As such, our Agile experts are empowered with:

- Assessments and workflows used to determine the best Agile approach.
- Tools and services used to implement the Agile approach.
- An Agile Metrics Framework to help manage and provide governance for the Agile approach. With a disciplined approach and outcomes-focused framework, our experts enable process consistency by identifying roadblocks and risks, providing visibility into project status.
